Monday, January 6th, 1745-6. [Numb. 615.]

From the BOSTON EVENING POST, No. 502.

An Extract of a Letter, from the Reverend Mr. Commissary Garden to South Carolina, to his Friend in Boston: Dated Febr. 22d, 1744-5.

SIR,

I HAVE received Mr. Foxcroft's APOLOGY for Mr. Whitefield, &c —the compleatest Piece, I think, of pure WRANGLE, that ever I set Eyes on, even MUGGLETON's Polemicks not excepted, and of which W—d may well say, as Hecuba did to her old feeble Priam, putting on his Armour in the last Extremity, of Fire and Sword about their Ears,

Non talí auxilio, nec defensoribus istis tempus eget.

I am truly sorry to see a Gentleman expose himself in so egregious a Manner:—labouring, in such forced and fruitless Efforts to bring forth a Defence of Matters impossible to be defended; or becoming a Tool to another, who at the same time must contemn him for his Pains.—Has W—d certified his Approbation of this Apology, as a sufficient Vindication of his Conduct, publickly called for? Or do's he skulk behind it, at Liberty to disclaim it when he pleases, as not obliged to abide by all the Nonsense that may be scribled in his Behalf?

I heartily wish that I had Time to draw up and send you my Remarks on the whole Performance; but at present a few Strictures on a Passage of it, concerning my Proceedings against W—d, and his Appeal from the same must suffice.

The Passage (P. 43) begins thus.——What Account can be given of the Publick LIGHT there (at home) put upon Commissary Garden's confistorial Proceedings against Mr. W—d at South Carolina, &c] No Account, be sure, can be given of what never existed —— But such Light insists Mr. F. did exist: For Mr. W—d having interposed an Appeal in the Cause, from Mr. Commissary's Spiritual Court to his MAJESTY in his high Court of Chancery, tho' when he returned to England he attempted bona fide to prosecute his said Appeal, yet could not prevail with the Lord's appointed by his Majesty's Commission, so much as to meet once on the Affair: &c] Lo, a Writer grosly imposed on, or scribling in the Dark! For (1) That an Appeal to His MAJESTY in his High Court of Chancery was interposed or granted in the Cause, is false in Fact. No such Appeal was either interposed or granted; but an Appeal only to the Lords appointed by his MAJESTY's Commission for hearing Appeals in Ecclesiastical Causes from America; and to them every one by Name; so that there could be no Possibility of a Mistake (2) If I may depend on my Information (which I think I may safely do) in the Affair; Mr W—d did NOT attempt bona fide to prosecute his said Appeal, but wholy neglected the Prosecution of it, 'till the whole Vacatory Term was expired, and the Proceedings thereupon resumed in South-Carolina —The Case in a few Words (to the best of my Knowledge and Information) is thus.—Mr W—d had an Appeal granted him from the Process against him here, dated July 19th, 1740, on his depositing ten Pounds Sterling, and making Oath, that within one Year next ensuing that Day, he would bona fide prosecute the Appeal then by him interposed in that Cause, and cause the Prosecution of the same to be authentically certified into this Court —— This Oath he Journalized in these Words.——"And swear, that I would LODGE my Appeal within a twelvemonth."—An authentick Copy of the whole Process I sent to London, where it was put into the Hands of two eminent Civilians, who, after Examination declared themselves ready to defend it, whenever the Appellant should think fit to bring on his Appeal. Thus they waited the Appellant's Motions, for nothing else, in the Case, could they do —But he, the Appellant, instead of taking the proper Measures for prosecuting his Appeal, and which the meanest Civilian that practises in Doctors Commons might have directed and managed for him, he goes and LODGES it (as his Journal terms it) in the Council Office, just to the same Purpose towards its Prosecution, as if he had LODGED it in the Admiralty, or Plantation Office, or any other publick Office in England. And here it did lodge in all Peace and Security, 'till the Vacatory Term was fully expired, and, I suppose, 'till he had Notice that the Process was returned in South-Carolina. For a Letter from a sure Hand, dated London August 28th, 1741. informs me in the Words following—'Upon my 'sending lately to the Council Office, to enquire whether any 'Steps had been taken, since the Appeal was lodged there, one 'of the Clerks writes me as follows:—Not for Mr. W—d nor his 'Solicitor have been to enquire after the Appeal, since it was lodged 'at this Office. By which it looks, as if they thought they had done 'all that was incumbent on them, by preparing and lodging the Appeal.'——(3) If after the Vacatory Term was expired, (and how long after I know not) Mr. W—d dislodged his Appeal, and applied to his Grace of Canterbury, or any other the Lords of Appeal, for a Hearing, must they not deny it him? They must know that the Cause was no longer before them, but that the Court in South Carolina must proceed to a definitive Sentence, and which it did accordingly.

This is a true State of the Case, according to the Light it stands in at present with me.

But the Apologist goes on —They (the Lords of Appeal) thinking, no doubt, with sufficient Contempt of Mr Garden's INVIDIOUS Proceedings, not to say USURPED Power] The Lords could not well contemn what never came before them —The Term INVIDIOUS, I will not retort on Mr. F's Apology, but only desire him to look into the 1st. and 2d P. of that Performance;—— to say whether he knew my Heart in those Proceedings, and that I acted not in the Integrity of it, but out of Envy — and to believe me, that I never did, nor do envy Mr. W—d the Honour of his Talents or Behaviour, nor Mr F. the Honour of his Apology —The Terms, USURPED Power, are too gross. I impute them not to Mr. F's Disloyalty, but to his Ignorance. And therefore am willing to inform him, that the Power I acted by, was that of his Majesty King GEORGE the second's Commission, under his Great Seal of England, to the Bishop of London, enrolled by his Majesty's express Instruction to his Governour here, in the publick Records of this Province, and the said Bishop's Commission, delegating the Execution of the same to me; which Mr. F. will not deem an USURPED Power.

And now, dear Sir, as I have scarce a Minute's Time more, I must leave to your Observation from the above, of what avail the Apologist's fictitious SLIGHT put upon my Proceedings, &c. at home, will be to his Argument; and also how absurdly he resolves the Conduct of the Bishops, in neither promising a Hearing on the Appeal, nor stopping another Process against him, as a Revoker after Subscription, into their being conscious of his Innocence &c For (1.) it was neither their Business, nor in their Power, to bring on a Hearing on the Appeal, that being the Right and Business solely of the Appellant to do.—— (2dly) Neither could they have instituted a new Process against him for the same Crime while they knew the first subsisted, and would be carried on in Carolina, without the Clamor of a double Persecution, and exciting a Number of fiery Creatures to insult and abuse them.

You'll easily observe also, what Darkness the Apologist has wandered in (P. 25, and 26) from his not knowing, that the Canons and Constitutions Ecclesiastical are extended to America by this MAJESTY'S Majesty's said Royal Commission. Whether this Ignorance be real or affected, I know not; but sure I am, that on any proper Enquiry, Mr. Commissary Price might have duly informed him.

Alex. Garden.

POSTSCRIPT.

I am in no doubt, but the other Matters of the said Apology will be examined by one or other in your Parts. So many false, idle, and silly Things ragg'd together, and in such a Diction, the Publick has been but seldom troubled with; and therefore no one will be at a Loss to conceive, on what Grounds the Gentleman is persuaded (as P. 9th he says he is) that the Church of England does not declare, that the Sacraments were instituted for conveying Ordinances; while yet her Offices for the Baptism, both of Infants and adult Persons, [the Words as well as the Church Catechism, (See Answers to Questions iiid and xviiith) omitted in the Paper sent to Boston.] flood full in his Face to the contrary.

PARIS, Sept 6 O. S.

MR. Van Hey, Ambassador from the States General, complimented the King, Queen, Dauphin, and Princesses, upon his Majesty's Arrival here, in the following Manner:

To the KING.

"Sire.

"Their High Mightinesses the States General of the United Provinces have commanded me to congratulate your Majesty on your happy Return to this your Capital, after having expos'd your Sacred Person with the most heroic Bravery to the greatest Dangers. Pray God preserve to us, Great Prince, your Life; That Life which your Virtues render so precious to your People, and which contributes so much to the Happiness of all Europe. Perpetuate, Sire, your glorious Reign by restoring a general Peace, and then will your Majesty become the Benefactor of all human Kind."

To the QUEEN

"Madam

"Their High Mightinesses the States General of the United Provinces, have commanded me to congratulate your Majesty upon the happy Arrival of the King and the Dauphin, after their having been expos'd to the greatest Dangers with the utmost Courage. May the Almighty grant your Majesty's Prayers for the Preservation of your Royal Consort, and your dear Son; and likewise prosper your wishes to re establish a general Peace, since they cannot be more just and laudable: These are grounded on your Majesty's most sincere Piety, and 'tis your Humility which conveys them to Heaven."

To the DAUPHIN.

"Monsieur,

"Their High Mightinesses the States General of the United Provinces, have commanded me to congratulate you on your Return, who have, after the Example of your august Father, expos'd your Person to the most imminent Danger. Pray God preserve, for our Sakes, your precious Life, and render you more and more the Delight of France, as you already are the Admiration of all Europe."

To the PRINCESSES.

"Mesdames,

"Their High Mightinesses the States General of the United Provinces have commanded me to congratulate you on the happy Arrival of the King, after his having expos'd his Sacred Person to the most imminent Dangers, Pray God grant you, Mesdames, all your reasonable Desires, and add daily to that Happiness you already enjoy."

Their Majesties and the Royal Family receiv'd these Compliments of Congratulation with great Satisfaction, and assur'd the Ambassador of their Veneration for their High Mightinesses, and the Esteem they had for his Person.

A Letter from Aleppo, dated July 2.

According to the last Advices from Persia the Schah Nadir detached 20,000 Men to reduce a Rebel whose name was Tahi Khan, who had been sub-Governor of the Province of Schiras. He defended himself with great Obstinacy, lost the Country Inch by Inch, and at last suffered himself to be shut up in the City or that Name, which was one of the finest and richest in Persia. It was however, carried by an Assault, and all the People capable of carrying Arms, put to the Sword without Mercy. The Women and Male Children were sold for Slaves. As for Taki Khan and his Family, they were carried to Ispahan, and there exposed in the Market-places to the Insults of the Mob. A few Days afterwards he was bro't into the great Square, where he had first the Mortification of seeing his Wife ravish'd by as many as would of the Soldiers; then his eldest Son had his Head cut off kneeling at his Feet, and afterwards 50 of his Friends shar'd the same Fate. The Executioners then selz'd upon him, and tore out one of his Eyes by the Roots; they had proceeded farther, but an Order came from the Schah Nadir to bring him to him at Kars, and to cut off a Member at every Town he stopp'd at by the Way. These Cruelties, instead of terrifying exasperated the People; so that those who were most attached to the Schah, begin to shew evident signs of Discontent. This has had a very strange Effect upon his Mind; for conceiving that he had not long to live, he has ordered a Tomb to be built for himself at Calaat in Korisan, where he was born, compos'd with fine Marble; on the top of which is rais'd a Pyramid, compos'd of Pomgranate of Gold, surmounted with a naked Arm holding a Sword, all of the same Metal. He has appointed twelve Mollas, or Priests, who are to be relieved by each other thrice in 24 Hours, so that four are always to be on Duty, who are to hold Lamps fill'd with perfum'd Oil in their Hands, while they sing Hymns, full of his Praises.

(Mr. Timothy,

The following Letter was long since published in the SPECTATOR: By inserting it anew in your Gazette, you might do Service to a great Number at this Day in the like Circumstances with the Complainant.

SIR,

I Am one of those unhappy Men that are plagued with a Gospel-gossip. Lectures in the Morning, Church meetings at Noon, and Preparation Sermons at Night, take up so much of her Time, 'tis very rare she knows what we have Dinner, unless when the Preacher is to be at it. With him come a Tribe, all Brothers and Sisters, it seems; while others, really such, are deemed no Relations. If at any Time I have her Company alone she is a meer Sermon Pop gun, repeating and discharging Texts, Proofs, and Applications so perpetually, that however weary I may go to Bed, the Noise in my Head will not let me sleep 'till towards Morning. The Misery of my Case, and great Numbers of such sufferers, plead your Pity and speedy Relief; otherwise must expect, in a little Time, to be lectured, preached and prayed into Want, unless the Happiness of being sooner talked to Death prevent it.

I am, &c R G.
